Response to Remarks

1. Applicants' arguments, filed on 8/27/07, have been approved and entered. They have been fully considered. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from previous office actions are hereby withdrawn. The following rejections and/or objections are either newly applied or reiterated. They constitute the complete set presently being applied to the instant application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 6-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 6 is vague and indefinite because it is unclear whether in the claim, the particulate bodies are actually being mixed and dispersed in a fluid containing nucleic acid or proteins, because having the capabilities is not the same thing as actually performing the function. A positive recitation is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 1637

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 6-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Kim et al. (PUB NO.: US2002/0006626).

Kim et al. discloses a process for preparing monolayers and microarrays of biomolecules by reacting functionalized dendrimers on solid surface with biomolecules such as proteins antigens antibodies enzymes ligands receptors and the like. The process comprises the steps of : reacting a metal surface or a glass surface (which is viewed as the fine particle based on the definition in the instant specification pages 2-3 bridging paragraph) with alkane thiol or derivatized silane with amine reactive functionality to obtain a self-assembled monolayer; reacting the self-assembled monolayer with amine-terminated dendrimers to give micropattern of dendrimers; and reacting the patterned dendrimers with biomolecule of protein, antigen, antibody, enzyme, receptor, or ligand which is viewed to be inclusive of the extraction step. (see Figures and pages 1-2).

This rejection is being reapplied because the reference do discloses particles as defined in the instant specification Pages 2-3. Therefore the term fine particles is broad enough to include Kim's particles and therefore the argument that the bonding is weak and unstable are just allegations without factual supports.

Applicants argue that in contrast, in the present invention as recited in present claim 1, the particulate bodies used in the extraction step are mixed and dispersed in a medium containing the nucleic acid or protein in the extraction step. Correspondingly, in the present invention as recited in present claim 6, the substances which are composed of particulate bodies capable of being mixed and dispersed in a fluid containing nucleic acid or protein and configured so that nucleic acid or protein can be captured by these amino radicals. However because of the 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph above, the rejection is maintained.

4. Claims 29 and 30 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5. Claims 1-5, 11-28 are allowed.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for response to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the date of this action. In the event a first response is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event will the statutory period for response expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
